

22<sup>ain</sup> O Dachwedd / 22nd November 2019

ICO Blog: ICO's blog on its information rights work
The Information Commissioner's Office (ICO) has created the first in a series of blog posts covering the regulation of access to information legislation.

News Article: Huntington's disease - Woman who inherited gene sues NHS
A woman who was not informed that her father had a fatal, inherited brain disorder has told the High Court that she would have had an abortion if she'd known at the time of her pregnancy. The case could trigger a shift in patient confidentiality, and raise questions over the potential duty of care owed to family members following genetic testing.

News Article: Is consumer protection legislation fit for purpose?
Whilst companies can be fined for failing to comply with data protection legislation rules, experts have commented that enforcement agencies are overstretched, and there is no explicit provision for individual consumers to hold companies accountable.

Blog: The Catch 22 Scenario for GDPR
The General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) provides the right for individuals to see what data organisations is holding and how it is being used. But how do organisations determine that a request received is from the person making the request?

ICO Blog: Data ethics and the digital economy
The ICO have announced they are taking the innovative step in engaging with data ethics as they have appointed their first data ethics adviser.

News Article: ICO investigates Brexit Party for failing to hand over personal data
The ICO is investigating the Brexit Party for not complying Subject Access Requests made under the GDPR.

Am rhagor o ddiweddaridau ynglyn â Diogelu data ewch i wefan Swyddfa Comisiynwdd Gwybodaeth. Cliciwch yma.

For updates on the ICO's Guide to the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) [click here \[link\]](#).